Jawaharlal Nehru Collection

Nehru Centre Library

Among our valuable collection, the Nehru Centre Library is proud to hold hundreds of books written by and about India's first Prime Minister.

In fact, the Library has all the books ever written by Jawaharlal Nehru, including Selected Works of Jawaharlal Nehru – First series Vol. 1 – 14 and Second series Vol. 1 - 36. We also have the many volumes of letters he wrote to the heads of state while he held the Prime Minister's post. There's plenty to learn about India's history, foreign policy and culture within these pages.

Rabindranath Tagore once wrote to him about his book, "Through all its details, there runs a deep current of humanity, which overpasses the tangles of facts and leads us to the person, who is greater than his deeds, and truer than his surroundings."

India's first Prime Minister - Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru (14 November 1889 – 27 May 1964) played an important role in Indian politics through the 20th century. His ideals and vision still serve as the foundation of the country's finest institutions and projects.

Pandit Nehru was also a prolific and gifted writer who wrote a number of books, including the Glimpses of World History, which is still today an unsurpassed book about history, read by people of all ages and nationalities. He wrote without access to any library, about the fortunes of great civilizations from Greece and Rome to China and West Asia; he also brought to life great leaders such as Ashoka and Genghis Khan, Gandhi and Lenin; he analysed wars and revolutions, democracies and dictatorships.

Several historians and people who worked closely with him have written about his ideals and how he worked towards building India in the aftermath of the freedom struggle and the Partition.

Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru's extraordinary mind, his flawless writing style that draws you into a conversation as you read, and his matchless grasp of world history are treasures the Nehru Centre Library is honoured to preserve.
